RELATIVE PRONOUNS

SUBJECT	OBJECT	POSSESSIVE
who	who/whom	whose
which	which	whose that	that	---

RELATIVE PRONOUNS

We use relative pronouns to introduce relative clauses.

My friend, who is a doctor, examined my mother.

This is the dress which I would like to return.

It is a company that treats employees well.

We use:

who and whom for people

which for things that for people or things

RELATIVE PRONOUNS

whose and whom

We use whose as the possessive form of who:

This is Penny, whose mother was my Maths teacher.

We sometimes use whom as the object of a verb or preposition:

This is Lisa, whom you met at my birthday party 5 years ago.
(whom is the object of met)

This is Teddy's brother, with whom I went to the gym last year.
(whom is the object of with)

Nowadays we normally use who:

This is Lisa, who you met at my birthday party 5 years ago.
This is George's brother, who I went to the gym with.

RELATIVE PRONOUNS

when and where

We can use when with times and where with places to make it clear which time or place we are talking about:

Italy won the World Cup in 2006. It was the year when I graduated.

I remember my graduation party. It was the day when Italy won the world cup.

Do you remember the place where we first met?

Salzburg is the town where Mozart was born.

RELATIVE CLAUSES

Relative clauses tell us more about people and things. There are two types:

1. We use relative clauses to make clear which person or thing we are talking about:

He is the actor who plays in the new Harry Potter film.
This is the book which I wrote.

In this kind of relative clause, we can use that instead of who or which:

He is the actor that plays in the new Harry Potter film.
This is the book that I wrote.

RELATIVE CLAUSES

We can leave out the pronoun if it is the object of the relative clause:

This is the book that I wrote. (that is the object of wrote) = This is the book I wrote.

The relative pronoun is the subject/object of the relative clause, so we do not repeat the subject/object:

He is the man who wanted to date me years ago. (who ~~he~~ wanted)

This is the picture that my daughter painted. (that my daughter painted ~~it~~)

RELATIVE CLAUSES

2. We use relative clauses to give more information about a person, thing or situation.

My grandfather, who is 75, decided to run a marathon.

We took a walk in the city centre, which I always enjoy.

With this kind of relative clause, we use commas (,) to separate it from the rest of the sentence.
