You Are What You Eat! – Audioscript 2

Here are some top health tips. Remember that you might like the taste of the food you are eating or drinking, but have you ever wondered about the effects on your body?

Everyone knows we should drink lots of water and eat plenty of fruits and vegetables, but in the real world most of us prefer soft drinks to water and we all know that we eat food that is bad for us. It's fine to eat any food, though, as long as our diet is balanced. We have to know the effects that the foods and drinks we consume have on our bodies.

Let's take red meat. It's not bad for you, unless you eat a lot of it. Or white meat. White meat is definitely good for us, because it contains a natural substance that can actually change our mood: it makes us feel more relaxed. Did you know that?
Cheese has calcium, it's good for our teeth, but it's high in fat and salt! Too much salt can cause high blood pressure.

Coffee gives you energy due to caffeine, and that's fine, but if you drink too much it can make you feel stressed and give you problems in sleeping. Tea is fine, and it also improves your ability to concentrate. Some people rely on soda, because it gives you the necessary energy, but only for a short period. However it can contain up to 15 teaspoons of sugar! That's a lot of calories! Calories that are called, 'empty' calories, as they have no nutrition. While dark chocolate can help your blood pressure lower. We've got to keep an eye on these things, to feel healthier.

Making wise food choices allows you to eat basically what you like, you just need to mix the good and the bad!
Wow, after all this, I think I need to cut down on lots of things, because most of them are fattening and I end up putting on weight! Bye!
